COUNCILMAN ATTACKS PARK COMMISSIONERS

Councilman Kitzmiller Gives as his Opinion that Gettysburg National Park Commission Acts without Knowledge of War Department at Washington. Uniform Curb throughout Town.

That the Gettysburg National Park Commission is buying land in Gettysburg without the knowledge of the authorities at the War Department was given out by Councilman Jacob Kitzmiller at Tuesday night's town council meeting as his opinion of the operations of the men in charge of the battlefield and its interests.

The discussion came about through some one saying that the Park Commission was trying to purchase more land at the east end of town. Mr. Kitzmiller said: "I don't believe the government knows anything about wanting that land. I would like to know what their motive is in buying such a tract. What do they want land in town for anyway?" The second ward representative then went on "What is more I don't want to see the Government make any roads in Gettysburg if they expect to control them."

This was followed by a more or less general discussion of the recent work of the Commission.

UNIFORM CURB
The most important business transacted at Tuesday night's meeting of Council was the acceptance of the report of a committee consisting of Messrs. Butt, Kitzmiller and Codori, recommending that an ordinance be adopted providing for uniform concrete curb all over the borough, to be constructed by the borough and paid for by each individual property holder.

The committee recommended that concrete curb and gutter lines be put in by the borough, that a careful account be kept of the expense of the same and that each property owner be required to pay the actual cost per foot of the construction of the curb at their pavements. Only concrete is to be used. It is estimated that the cost will be about 33 1-3 cents per foot.

It is the plan to have a square of the curb made at a time. This would give the entire grade for that square and pavements built after the curb was established would all have to come to that line.

Before many years the entire town would have a uniform curb of concrete and in addition to stimulating the construction of concrete pavements this would also facilitate the finding of the grade and do away with all the discussions and contentions that have been the rule for the past two years. All pavements would then be made to conform to the curb line and would therefore have to conform to the uniform grade. Doubtless some places will present queer sights after the curb is built and before new pavements are laid but the final result, it is believed, will justify the course of the Council in the matter.

In addition to the action on the curb matter the Council also adopted the suggestion of the committee that in the future there should be twelve foot pavements on 60 foot streets and ten foot pavements on 50 foot streets. They are now 11 and 9 feet respectively. Council argues that this will make better pavements and in addition give less road space to maintain.

OTHER BUSINESS
The Board of Health asked for $50.00 of the appropriation granted at the beginning of the year. The request was granted.

The treasurer reported a balance in the general fund of $4488.08 and in the special fund of $2629.68. He also reported outstanding notes against the general fund amounting to $4835 and one against the special fund of $1880.

On motion of Mr. Koch seconded by Mr. Tawney it was decided to notify the Reading Railroad to fill up approach to their tracks on South side of West Middle street and also plank tracks at the crossing.

Andrew Weikert appeared before Council and asked again for a suitable inlet to the properties on the North side of the Western Maryland railroad at the East end of town. On motion of Mr. Butt seconded by Mr. Tawney, Borough Attorney White was requested to look into the matter of the practicability of crossing the railroad at grade.

Mr. Butt reported no progress in the work of the committee on the alleys at the East end of East Middle street and asked that the committee be continued. The request was granted.

Mr. Butt reported a request from Captain Calvin Gilbert to change slightly the trend of West Middle street. The change desired would run the street through the houses of Mrs.

TO HURRY WORK ON BUILDING

Special Effort Made on Tuesday to Get Work Hurried on New Post Office Building. Must be Done in Time for Anniversary.

Representative Lafean, had a conference at Washington on Tuesday with Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hilles regarding the proposed new post office at Gettysburg. The work of the supervising architect's office is two years behind, and Mr. Lafean asked that a special effort be made to have the work begun as soon as possible, that the building might be ready for occupancy by the summer of 1918 when the semi-centennial celebration of the battle of Gettysburg will be held.

Mr. Hilles promised to expedite the construction as much as possible. Mr. Lafean also wanted work begun as soon as possible on the public building at Holland. He was told that the Holland building had been authorized by Congress, but that no appropriation had ever been made for it, and that no site had been provided.

HEARD A BELLED BUZZARD

When so substantial a citizen as former Supervisor Eli C. Fitz, of South Mountain, declares that he heard the long talked of "belled buzzard," the doubt that many people have had as to its existence begins to lessen.

Mr. Fitz was going to the railroad station early one morning when he heard the tinkling of a bell. He looked all about him, and so did a man on the road, who fancied his dog was following him, but there was nothing on the earth that could give forth such a sound, and then they looked above them.

There they saw, a thousand feet away from them, a flock of buzzards, and by close listening they determine the tinkling of the bell came from that flock. They could not pick out the individual bird, but they are satisfied it was there.

Protection From Lightning.
Sir Oliver Lodge stated that the problem of securing protection from lightning consisted in finding the best method of dissipating the enormous energy of the flash, but that it was not wise to get rid of the energy too quickly. A thin iron wire is considered the best lightning conductor from the electrical point of view, but it is almost impossible to protect a building from lightning unless it is completely enveloped in a metal cage. It is by no means true that a building is safe when provided with a conductor reaching up to the highest part of the building.

DROUGHT IS VERY SERIOUS

Towns and Rural Districts Claim that Drought is Making Conditions Very Serious in their Sections. Wells Going Dry.

The cry for rain is becoming louder every day especially among the farmers who claim that they are up against a very serious proposition on account of the lack of rainfall during the past few weeks. County towns and towns in nearby counties are also complaining and the condition in many sections is becoming alarming.

Farmers claim that wells which have not gone dry in thirty five years have failed now and that they have trouble getting water for their stock in addition to what they need for their own use. Streams are showing the effect of the dry weather and many towns are having trouble in this direction.

Some of the county towns are experiencing a shortage in water supply. Biglerville especially fears trouble. Hanover for several weeks has been fearing a regular water famine and the residents of that borough are very apprehensive. Spring Grove may be forced to close down their mills on account of lack of water. Other towns in this section tell of the same conditions.

The roads throughout the county are more dusty than for many months and driving has no pleasure for those who get around in that way. Gettysburg residents with no cry of shortage of water and the streets well sprinkled, do not realize the seriousness of conditions in other places.

ASPERS

Aspers, Oct. 5—Arb. Deardorff, who had been so seriously ill with typhoid fever the past six weeks or so is improving and is able to walk out of doors.

The good kind neighbors gathered together on Monday afternoon and cut off all his corn for which Mr. Deardorff was profoundly thankful. The following gentlemen assisted: J. Willis Eppelman, Martin Baugher, C. W. Rice, Dr. Samuel Miller, Hanson Peters, Harry Brough, Thomas Dull, Claude Brame, Arthur Cook, Merritt Rouser, Elmer Miller, H. N. Slaybaugh, Emory A. Deardorff, William Hayberger, William Currens, Eli W. Guise, Joseph Beamer, Earl Guise, Irvin L. Blair, Daniel Lauver, Edgar Naylor, Henry Deardorff, Chester Crum, Samuel A. Brame and Edgar Slaybaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cline started on Saturday to visit friends in and around Harrisburg.

Elijah Sowers is off on a visit to friends in Iowa.

Henry Naylor who had been away for several months is now on his rounds in our town and seems to be well pleased to come home again.

George Schlosser who had been on the sick list for some time, is able to hustle around again.

Mrs. Sarah Petrey was in Harrisburg several days last week.

The millers in this section are experiencing lots of trouble. The water is scarce and scarcely any grinding can be done. Many springs and wells in this section have almost failed.

H. M. Weigle with a force of hands has about finished picking his York Imperial apples in his large young orchards and has sold the entire crop at a high price.

C. W. Bender has moved his family to Harrisburg.

Quite a good number of our people and many from Center Mills attended the Carlisle fair last week.

Kellar Lupp spent last Saturday and Sunday among friends in Shippensburg.

The Origin of Grocer.
Grocer appears in Hollinshead's Chronicle, 1580, as "grosser," and in other mediaeval records it is sometimes written "engrosser" and was applied to the spicers and peppers who were wholesale dealers in various spices—that is, who dealt en gros—in large quantities, as distinguished from "retailers," who were retail dealers. The Grocers' company first adopted the word grocer in 1373, when the spicers and peppers allied themselves into a single corporation.—London Express.

WARMEST SEPTEMBER

The monthly meteorological summary issued by the weather bureau shows the month of September to have been the warmest with but one exception in ten years. The mean temperature was 68 degrees, while in 1906 it registered two degrees more. The mean temperature for last month was a fraction less than two degrees higher than the normal, so that so far as temperature was concerned the month was not unusual. The total rainfall for the month was a fraction more than two and seventh tenths inches, or one-tenth of an inch more than that of 1909. The total precipitation was the highest in five years except in 1905 when 8.27 inches were registered. There were eleven clear days, eleven cloudy, and eight partly cloudy.

BIG CITY MINSTRELS

Announced among the important offerings for the coming season is John W. Vogel's big city minstrels which comes to the Walter's Theatre on Thursday, Oct. 6, inaugurating this company's fourteenth season. Manager Vogel has gotten together for this season a strong minstrel organization, heading his vocalists with Master Ray Wylie, whom he styles the "Male Tetrazzini." Mr. Vogel feels that he has discovered the greatest living male soprano in the world. Musical and vocal experts who have heard this young man agree that he is the possessor of a beautiful voice. The old favorite, Charles Gano, and ably supported by that talented comedian, Billy Burk, will fill the principle ends supplied with a budget of new jokes and songs. The vocalists will include many favorites, and as in the past will be under the direction of Harry Leighton. The Company's popularity warrants the prediction of a capacity house.

THE LITTLE HOMESTEAD

The amusement loving people who enjoy a good rural drama of the pronounced type, but still with plenty of good comedy, sensation and heart interest, should witness "The Little Homestead" which comes to the Walter Theatre on Monday, October 10. The story is from the pen of Mr. W. B. Pattin, who has written a number of well known successes and in "The Little Homestead" has written a play that will live in the hearts of an entire life. It is told in four acts of an appealing wife, who leaves a happy home to be degraded and carried to destitution by a false lover, but virtue triumphs in the end.

RESIGNS AS PROVOST OF PENN
C. C. Harrison to Quit the University.
FRIENDS NOT SURPRISED

Arduous Duties and Considerations of Health Assigned as Reasons—Considered Resigning For Three Years.
Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—Provost Charles C. Harrison, who for the past sixteen years has been the active head of the University of Pennsylvania, and who has served that institution of learning in an exceptionally able manner, submitted his formal resignation from office at a meeting of the trustees.
The resignation, which the provost desires to take effect not later than Dec. 31, 1910, was not accepted and was referred for consideration to that standing committee of trustees known as the committee on the state of the university.
Those trustees who attended the meeting, and also all the other trustees and personal friends of the provost, were not unprepared for the news that the university was face to face with a serious question. In the mail the trustees and the friends of the provost received letters from Mr. Harrison acquainting them in advance with the decision that had been reached by him.
This decision to resign his arduous duties had been debated in the mind of the provost for some three years past, and those close to him have been conversant with the reasons which impelled him to offer his resignation.
Considerations of health and family and a desire to be relieved of the vast amount of detail work connected with his position are said to be the reasons for the step taken by the provost. This state of affairs is well known among the trustees, and especially by those who are members of the standing committee on the state of the university, which committee will make a final disposition of the proffered resignation.
It is believed that the trustees will devise some way by which the provost's duties, particularly those related to detail work, may be lightened, with the end that Mr. Harrison's genius for organization and finance may be saved to the university, which under his leadership has made such gigantic strides.
Coincident with the news of Provost Harrison's resignation came the announcement that the resignation of Dr. J. William White, John Rhea Barton professor of surgery, had been accepted by the trustees at the same meeting.

SWALLOWED NINE SPOONS
Insane Patient Made a Practice of Eating Ware.
Concord, N. H., Oct. 5.—Nine spoons in a human stomach have been disclosed by an autopsy performed on Miss Catherine Mohr, of Manchester, an inmate of the State Insane hospital here.
A few days ago one of the attendants saw the woman swallow a teaspoon. Medical assistance was summoned, but the patient died in a short time. An autopsy revealed nine spoons, all but one of them bearing the asylum mark.
UNWRITTEN LAW SAVES GIRL
Child Who Confessed Slaying God-Father is Cleared by Jury.
Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 5.—Thirteen-year-old Katherine Bott, who admitted the killing of her god-father, Pasquale Volpe, by striking him with an axe and running a red-hot poker through his body, was cleared of a murder charge by the verdict of a jury after an hour's deliberation.
The defense had been based wholly on the unwritten law.

Won't Rent Cottage to Taft.
Beverly, Mass., Oct. 5.—President Taft wants to rent the Evans cottage on Burgess Point for another summer, but Mrs. Robert Johnson Evans, the owner, won't give it to him. She wants to tear the cottage down and build an Italian garden on the site. It is known that Mr. Taft expressed a desire to take the cottage for another season, but Mrs. Evans had her heart set on the Italian garden. Hence the president of the United States is out "house hunting."
Wolgang May Quit Ring.
Chicago, Oct. 5.—Ad Wolfgang, the lightweight champion, may never fight again. An examination of the champion's left arm, which was broken in a fight at Fond du Lac last week, was made Tuesday. The arm was broken just below the elbow, and the attending physician said Wolfgang will not be able to fight again for four months, and possibly never be able to use the arm in hard fights again.

Harrisburg Has 64,167 Population.
Washington, Oct. 5.—Population statistics were made public by the census bureau as follows: Harrisburg, Pa., 64,166, an increase of 14,019, or 27.9 per cent over 30,147 in 1900.
Camels in Harness.
The Australians, who were prejudiced in favor of the horse for a long time, had only to be shown the camel's usefulness in opening up their great central desert when they took them into the country by thousands from Asia and Africa, and they have by scientific building within fifteen years won the proud distinction of producing the best draft camels in the world, says Captain Fritz Duquesne in Success Magazine. TO STOP AUTO RACES
Death List in Vanderbilt Cup Causes Officials to Act.
New York, Oct. 5.—Horrified by the toll of death and maiming of participants and spectators at the Vanderbilt cup race, members of the board of supervisors of Nassau county will hold a meeting at the Meola courthouse and probably revoke the permit of the Grand Prix race which is scheduled to be held Oct. 15.
Even should the supervisors permit the race it is more than likely that a number of drivers will refuse to take part in it. Barney Oldfield has telegraphed his manager, William H. Pickens, who is in this city, withdrawing his entry unless the course is guarded by troops for his own safety and to prevent spectators from taking foolhardy risks.
Pickens, in criticizing the commercialism of the management, said: "For the Vanderbilt cup race $15,000 in entrance fees was taken in and a prize of $2000 was offered. For the two other races the entrance fees amounted to $5000, and the prizes again were worth only $2000. Putting aside the amount paid by the management for parking privileges and seats in the stands, they took in $20,000 and disbursed only $4000. Surely there was sufficient margin here for the proper policing of the course."
District Attorney Franklin A. Coles in entrance fees was taken in and a prize of $2000 was offered. For the two other races the entrance fees amounted to $5000, and the prizes again were worth only $2000. NEGRO BURNED TO DEATH AT STAKE
Alabama Mob Quickly Averages Attack on Young Woman.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 5.—Six hours after he had assaulted Mrs. Hiram Stuckey, a prominent young woman of Covington county, Bush Withers, a colored "trustee" at the Henderson convict camp, was taken from the warder while on his way to prison at Andalusia.
He was tied to a stake by a mob of 400 men and burned to death.
The lynching was conducted quietly, and the mob formed from adjoining towns, dispersed to their homes, leaving no traces of their fury, save the ashes of the victim.
The crime for which the man was lynched was committed when he went to the farm of Mr. Stuckey for the purpose of getting drinking water for fellow-convicts, who were employed at a camp nearby. Entering the house, it is declared, he attacked Mrs. Stuckey, who was alone, after which he clubbed her into insensibility in an effort to stifle her cries. It is reported she is in a precarious condition.
Before lapsing into insensibility, Mrs. Stuckey informed her rescuers of the assault, naming the "trustee," whom she knew as the perpetrator of the deed.

The great Australian desert is no longer an impassable waste. The camel trains, with their tinkling bells and red tassels and valuable loads of merchandise, travel from one side of the continent to the other, adding millions to the wealth of the country. From the mines in the interior where there is no water for milling purposes the camel comes laden with quartz. It can be seen pulling the plow, trotting to the farmer's buggy and it is used as a saddle animal. The camel requires very little care, it will carry from 400

"TYPHOID MARY'S" DOUBLE FOUND
Spread Disease Among Diners at Banquet.

New York, Oct. 5.—A double of "Typhoid Mary," the cook who was sequestered by the board of health of this city because she communicated typhoid germs to every one with whom she came in contact, has been discovered in Elizabeth, N. J., and it is believed by members of the New Jersey state board of health to have caused the deaths of three and the infection of more than twenty persons.
The typhoid epidemic in Elizabeth is dated from a banquet given in honor of Policeman John Kelly in Entre Nous hall two weeks ago. Following this dinner, there was an alarming spread of the malady among the guests, and last week three of them died. The dead are: John Sullivan, Richard McMahon and F. Lee Platz. Sullivan's two brothers, Daniel and Dennis, and Owen Farrelley, Democratic leader of the city, are ill, probably beyond recovery, in the Alexian Brothers' hospital.
It was thought at first that the germs came from the lobster and salads served at the banquet, but Dr. Rucker, a government food inspector and member of the state board of health, and Inspector Richards made an investigation and reported to the board that the food was all right and that the disease had been communicated by the food passing through the hands of a person who was employed in serving the menu.
This person handled every bit of the food served at the banquet, and Dr. Rucker reported that he had learned beyond a doubt that the case was similar to that of "Typhoid Mary." The board of health will not make public the name of the suspect, but they have the person under surveillance.
DEER PLENTIFUL HERE
Destroying Crops and Playing Havoc With Fields in Sullivan Co., N. Y.
Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Deer are so plentiful in Sullivan county that they are destroying the farmers' crops and creating havoc in the turnip fields.
The hunting season doesn't open until Oct. 15. Old hunters state that they cannot remember a time when deer were so numerous and are making ready for unusual sport when the season opens.
Hudson King, a farmer near Monticello, found three deer mingling with his herd of cattle in the barnyard. They were so tame he had difficulty in driving the maway.
Roosevelt's Horse Struck by Auto.
New York, Oct. 5.—A United Press dispatch from Oyster Bay says that Colonel Roosevelt had a narrow escape from serious injury while riding back near Sagamore Hill. It seems that the colonel's mount was struck a glancing blow by a passing automobile and knocked into a ditch, almost unseating his rider. Colonel Roosevelt, though thrown to one side, managed to regain his balance, and, after quieting his horse, rode home.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby, proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—
That section six of article five be amended, by striking out the said section, and inserting in place thereof the following:—
Section 6. In the county of Philadelphia all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the district courts and courts of common pleas, subject to such changes as may be made by this Constitution or by law, shall be in Philadelphia vested in five distinct and separate courts of equal and co-ordinate jurisdiction, composed of three judges each. The said courts in Philadelphia shall be designated, respectively as the court of common pleas number one, number two, number three, number four, and number five, but the number of said courts may be by law increased, from time to time, and shall be in like manner subject to such changes as may be made by law. The number of judges in any of said courts, or in any county where the establishment of an additional court may be authorized by law, may be increased, from time to time, and whenever such increase shall amount in the whole to three, such three judges shall compose a distinct and separate court as aforesaid, which shall be numbered as aforesaid. In Philadelphia all suits shall be instituted in the said courts of common pleas without designating the number of the said court, and the courts shall distribute and apportion the business among them in such manner as shall be provided by rules of court, and each court, to which any suit shall be thus assigned, shall have exclusive jurisdiction thereof, subject to change of venue, as shall be provided by law.
In the county of Allegheny all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the several numbered courts of common pleas shall be vested in one court of common pleas, composed of all the judges in commission in said courts. Such jurisdiction and powers shall extend to all proceedings at law and in equity which shall have been instituted in the several numbered courts, and shall be subject to such changes as may be made by law, and subject to change of venue as provided by law. The number of judges in said court may be by law increased from time to time. This amendment shall take effect on the first day of January succeeding its adoption.

A Place Death Has Overlooked.
Eden on earth is to be found, it seems, not far from Madrid, a paradise where death and disease are unknown and where every one is good humored and loves his neighbor as himself. It is the village of Cobena, where figuratively the sword has been beaten into the plowshare. The local chemist gave up the sale of drugs in despair two years ago and now presides over candles and ice cream. Half the cemetery has been turned into a pleasure garden. There has not been a single death for eight years—and the undertaker has fled from a spot where death refuses to provide him a living. There is only one discordant note in this home of harmony, and it is struck by the doctor. He has lived for years in the village on his capital, hoping against hope. Now his money is exhausted, and he has decided to emigrate. The inhabitant want to raise a subscription for him, but he refuses to accept charity from persons who have declined so persistently to contribute to his well being to their own ill health.
Dr. Wiley is a Good Eater.
If the public does not know that Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert, is one of the most assimilated men in the world all doubt of the fact will vanish after this story has been read. The doctor takes his lunch in the cafe of the National Press club, and when he lunches he misses no bet, overlooks no food. He has a fine appetite—a remarkable appetite, considering all the unpleasant and terrifying things he knows about foodstuffs.
One afternoon he finished his meal walked into the cloakroom and put his hat. As he was going out he was accosted by a friend, who invited him to lunch with him.
"To tell you the truth," he said whimsically, "I don't know whether I've just had lunch or not."
He thought deeply for several moments.
"Just to make sure," he concluded seriously, "I'll go in and have another."
And he ate as much the second time as he had the first.—Popular Magazine.
The Sandbar.
The unusual optical phenomenon of a bow produced by the sun shining, not on raindrops, but on particles of sand suspended in the air by wind, has been witnessed over a part of the Great Salt Lake.
The colors were very brilliant, and there was a secondary bow visible. The main bow was fully double the width of an ordinary rainbow. Only a segment of it was seen. The sand was oolitic, consisting of calcareous spherules of fairly uniform size ranging between the limits of No. 8 and No. 10 shot.
It has been claimed that the production of the bow must be due to reflection from the outer surfaces of the spherules and that it cannot be explained on the principle of refraction and total reflection, generally applied to the explanation of the rainbow.—Harper's Weekly.
Checks.
One of the chief concerns of the designers of our government was to provide plenty of checks, passive, active and reactive, so that everybody and everything would be duly and effectually checked by everybody and everything else. They builded better than they knew.
Our legislatures are checked by lobbyists.
Our people are checked by representatives.
Our lawyers are checked by technicalities.
Our savings are checked by the trusts.
Our expenditures are checked by our incomes.
Our incomes are checked by employers.
Our husbands are checked by our wives.—Life.
Talked Shop.
Senator La Follette of Wisconsin dropped in a short time ago for a chat with George M. Bowers, commissioner of fisheries in the department of commerce and labor.
"Well, Mr. Commissioner, how's everything with you?" asked the senator.
"Oh, with me," replied Bowers, "everything's swimming."—Popular Magazine.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and cures the disease of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. FUN IN THE HOME.

Make Life There Joyous and Bar Out Business Worries.

Whatever your lot in life, keep joy with you, says Orison Sweet Marden in Success Magazine. It is a great healer. Sorrow, worry, jealousy, envy, bad temper, create friction and grind away the delicate human machinery so that the brain loses its cunning.

Half the misery in the world would be avoided if the people would make a business of having plenty of fun at home instead of climbing every where else in search of it.

"Now For Rest and Fun" "No Business Troubles Allowed Here." These are good home building mottoes.

When you have had a perplexing day, when things have gone wrong with you and you go home at night exhausted, discouraged, blue, instead of making your home miserable by going over your troubles and trials just bury them. Instead of dragging them home and making yourself and your family unhappy with them and spoiling the whole evening, just lock everything that is disagreeable in your office.

Just resolve that your home shall be a place for bright pictures and pleasant memories, kindly feelings toward everybody and "a corking good time" generally. If you do this you will be surprised to see how your vacation or business wrinkles will be ironed out in the morning and how the crooked things will be straightened.

A Japanese Peculiarity.

"When a Japanese servant is rebuked or scolded," says a traveler, "he must smile like a Cheshire cat. The etiquette in smiles is very misleading at first. I often used to think that Takl, my riksha 'boy,' meant to be impertinent when he insisted on smiling when I was angry at him. But when he told me of the death of his little child with a burst of laughter I knew that this was only one of the curious details of etiquette in this topey turvy land."

Another Case Disclosed.

Dr. Doty's statement discloses not only that a cholera patient died on board the Sant' Anna, but that a steamer passenger, a "suspicious case," removed from the steamer Germania on Sept. 26, subsequently died on Swinburne Island. Examination into details, says Dr. Doty, that this also was a cholera case.

Dr. Doty's statement was issued after an examination of the Sant' Anna, which arrived from Marseilles, Naples and Palermo. The ship's surgeons presented a report of the death in the steerage caused by gastro-intestinal affection. The victim died within three days, Dr. Doty, commenting on the case, says:

"The history of the case indicates very clearly that the man died of cholera. No other cases have developed on the voyage, but there are two cases of intestinal trouble among the steerage passengers at present. Cultures have been taken in these cases and the bacteriological examination thus far shows no evidence of the cholera."

SAYS HOME RULE IS CERTAIN

Redmond Declares House of Lords is All Intervenes.

VISITING IN PHILADELPHIA

Irish Leader Certain Veto Power Will Be Taken From the House of Lords. What Others Say.

Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—"The veto power of the house of lords is all that stands between Ireland and home rule," said John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish parliamentary power, a few minutes after he reached the city. "The next step will be to take away that power from the lords."

"At the last elections there was a majority of 124 in the house of commons for destroying the veto power. The prospects for home rule are brighter than ever. Victory is practically assured. I am delighted to be back in Philadelphia."

"I am very glad to visit Philadelphia, too," said Mrs. Redmond, at the Bellevue-Stratford. She is a handsome woman, younger looking than her husband and in manner is very gracious.

Daniel Boyle, M. P. for North Mayo, who is in the party with Mr. Redmond, said:

"This is my first visit to America, and I am delighted with everything I have seen of it thus far. I find that the Irish in America are most enthusiastic for home rule. The national convention of the United Irish League of America at Buffalo and the great public mass meeting there were magnificent successes."

"I was much surprised at the greatness of New York city and with the beauty of Buffalo. I think your city has an impressive pile."

"I think the prospects for home rule in Ireland exceedingly bright. Living in England as I do, and knowing the change of sentiment that has taken place among the English masses, and knowing their determination to break down the power of the house of lords, it can be clearly seen that the extinction of the veto power of the house of lords means the opening of the door for home rule."

Joseph Devlin, M. P. for Belfast, national president of the A. O. H. of Ireland and secretary of the United Irish League of Ireland, said:

"The people of Ireland, in larger numbers than ever before, irrespective of class or creed, are in favor of home rule. The Sinn Féin movement is dead. Their organ in Dublin went out of existence six months ago. All Ireland, practically, is for home rule."

The Hon. Michael Doyle, lord mayor of Dublin, who is visiting this country, but who happened to come to this city with the Redmond party and is also stopping at the Bellevue-Stratford, said that he, with all the rest of the Irish people, acknowledged John E. Redmond as the leader of the Irish people.

This evening Messrs Redmond, Devlin and Boyle will be given a great demonstration by Philadelphians of Irish birth or descent at the Academy of Music. The three Irish envoys will address the meeting, which will be under the auspices of the local branch of the United Irish League of America. Archbishop Ryan, Bishop Prendergast and many clergymen and prominent citizens will occupy seats on the stage.

FUN IN THE HOME.

Make Life There Joyous and Bar Out Business Worries.

Whatever your lot in life, keep joy with you, says Orison Sweet Marden in Success Magazine. It is a great healer. Sorrow, worry, jealousy, envy, bad temper, create friction and grind away the delicate human machinery so that the brain loses its cunning.

Half the misery in the world would be avoided if the people would make a business of having plenty of fun at home instead of climbing every where else in search of it.

"Now For Rest and Fun" "No Business Troubles Allowed Here." These are good home building mottoes.

When you have had a perplexing day, when things have gone wrong with you and you go home at night exhausted, discouraged, blue, instead of making your home miserable by going over your troubles and trials just bury them. Instead of dragging them home and making yourself and your family unhappy with them and spoiling the whole evening, just lock everything that is disagreeable in your office.

Just resolve that your home shall be a place for bright pictures and pleasant memories, kindly feelings toward everybody and "a corking good time" generally. If you do this you will be surprised to see how your vacation or business wrinkles will be ironed out in the morning and how the crooked things will be straightened.

A Japanese Peculiarity.

"When a Japanese servant is rebuked or scolded," says a traveler, "he must smile like a Cheshire cat. The etiquette in smiles is very misleading at first. I often used to think that Takl, my riksha 'boy,' meant to be impertinent when he insisted on smiling when I was angry at him. But when he told me of the death of his little child with a burst of laughter I knew that this was only one of the curious details of etiquette in this topey turvy land."

Dr. Doty's statement discloses not only that a cholera patient died on board the Sant' Anna, but that a steamer passenger, a "suspicious case," removed from the steamer Germania on Sept. 26, subsequently died on Swinburne Island. Examination into details, says Dr. Doty, that this also was a cholera case.

Dr. Doty's statement was issued after an examination of the Sant' Anna, which arrived from Marseilles, Naples and Palermo. The ship's surgeons presented a report of the death in the steerage caused by gastro-intestinal affection. The victim died within three days, Dr. Doty, commenting on the case, says:

"The history of the case indicates very clearly that the man died of cholera. No other cases have developed on the voyage, but there are two cases of intestinal trouble among the steerage passengers at present. Cultures have been taken in these cases and the bacteriological examination thus far shows no evidence of the cholera."

REVOLUTION BREAKS OUT IN PORTUGAL

Government Troops Defeated and King a Prisoner.

London, Oct. 5.—Definite news has been received that revolution broke out in Lisbon. The king is a prisoner.

The army and navy are with the revolutionists, who have cut all the telegraph lines. Warships bombarded the royal palace, which stands above the river Tagus, in the western part of the city. There are no further details.

It is reported that the republicans are victorious after severe fighting. So far as can be ascertained no telegrams have left Lisbon for several hours and no details can be obtained from any source.

The Daily Mail, which gives prominence to the foregoing rumors, says that all communication with Lisbon has been stopped, the wires being cut. Nothing passed between Lisbon and the Portuguese legation on Oct. 4. An official at the legation, while declaring ignorance of the reported happenings, couldn't explain the dislocation of the telegraph service.

A Portuguese merchant in London is quoted by the Mail as saying that he received on that day news of a plot in Lisbon, but has heard nothing since.

PECK OUSTED; WILL FIGHT

Columbia Professor Sued by Woman Says He Won't Quit.

New York, Oct. 5.—Dr. Harry Thurston Peck, one of the foremost Latin scholars of the world, named as defendant in a $100,000 breach of promise suit brought by Esther Quinn, of Boston, was dismissed as Anthon professor of Latin language and literature by the trustees of Columbia university.

The dismissal grew directly out of Miss Quinn's suit and subsequent developments which involved Dr. Peck in a controversy with President Butler, of the university.

Although the resolution of the trustees terminates Dr. Peck's connection with the university "forthwith," he announced that he would not relinquish his position without a legal fight. In consideration of his long service the board voted him a lump sum equivalent to his salary ($5000) for the current academic year.

MOODY WILL RESIGN

Justice Will Quit Supreme Court Bench on Nov. 20.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 5.—President Taft received a letter from Justice William H. Moody, announcing that he will resign from the supreme court on Nov. 20 next.

Justice Moody told the president early in the summer that he would retire this fall if ill health still prevented him from resuming his seat on the bench. The justice is crippled with rheumatism and has given up all hope of being able to occupy his seat on the bench before the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases come up for reargument.

Sues Young Husband For Support.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 5.—Charging her husband, whom she married when he was fourteen years old, with non support, Mrs. Tony Elias Yomokin appeared before Judge Garman and asked that he be compelled to pay her a stipulated sum weekly. They were married a few years ago, at which time Yomokin was fourteen years old and his wife forty. She says he is now in love with another woman. Judge Garman ordered the boyish husband who is an Arabian, to pay his wife $3 a week.

$10,000,000 For Improvements.

Boston, Oct. 5.—At a Boston & Maine railroad directors' meeting held here approximately $10,000,000 was appropriated for new equipment and improvements. About one-third represents the amount to be used for equipment, and the larger part of this will be expended for new passenger cars although a portion will go toward passenger and freight locomotives.

CHOLERA ON SHIP HELD AT NEW YORK

Italian Vessel is Barred at Quarantine.

PLAGUE, SAYS OFFICER

Steering Passenger Died During Voyage and Was Buried at Sea—Three Others Are Ill.

New York, Oct. 5.—The steamship Sant' Anna, from French and Italian ports, now detained at quarantine, had a case of cholera aboard.

The victim, a man in the steerage, died on Sept. 25 and was buried at sea. Two other cases of intestinal trouble are under observation. Meanwhile the Sant' Anna, carrying 224 first cabin passengers, some of them prominent Americans, and 1072 in the steerage, is held as a possible cholera carrier, pending further investigation.

Announcement of the foregoing was made by Dr. A. H. Doty, health officer of the port, who has been fighting to keep cholera out of this country during the epidemic abroad. In addition to the Sant' Anna he has as a precaution detained the steamship Molke, from Genoa and Naples. He will hold a conference with Dr. Walter Weyman, surgeon general of the United States marine hospital service. Together they will map out a campaign of protection.

34 DIE IN TROLLEY CRASH

Cars Collided at Full Speed on a Curve.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 5.—Thirty-four persons were instantly killed and twenty-six others were injured when two interurban cars on the Illinois (McKinley) traction system collided head-on at Rickerson curve, two miles north of Staunton, Ill.

Both cars were going at a high rate of speed, and as the curve where they met is at the bottom of a hill both cars were plunging down hill. They met right on the curve, and so sudden was the collision, the motormen barely escaped with their lives by jumping.

Both cars were demolished, and the dead, dying and injured were piled in one bloody mass, while the screams of the maimed and bleeding added horror to the scene.

MAN'S WILL POWER.

Bismarck's Comment on Schopenhauer and His Theory.

In an entertaining account of a dinner party at Prince Bismarck's Berlin residence which is given in the recollections of the Ljvonian Journalist Eckhardt the following, which was a part of the table talk, shows the host in a new light: The conversation had turned on Bismarck's early days at Frankfurt, and Eckhardt asked whether at the table d'hôte of the Hotel d'Angleterre his host had ever met Schopenhauer. "No," said Bismarck; "he had no use for me nor I for him. Moreover, I have never had time or desire to occupy myself with philosophy. While I was a student Schopenhauer was still unknown. I know absolutely nothing about his system."

Another guest, an admirer of Schopenhauer, then joined enthusiastically in the conversation and explained that the philosopher's great merit consisted in the discovery of the fact that will power was the indestructible essence of the mind of man and that intelligence was only of secondary importance. "That may very well be true," said Prince Bismarck. "at least as far as I am concerned, for I have often noticed that my will had already come to a decision while my mind had not yet finished thinking about the same subject."

A RUSSIAN MARRIAGE.

The Way the Devils Were Driven Out of Eden.

By WILLIAM ALFRED COREY.
(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

Maksim Nagoroff and Natasha Shuben were to be married. It was high time, for Maksim, big and broad shouldered, was nineteen, and Natasha, buxom and pretty, was fifteen.

Notwithstanding Maksim and Natasha had themselves nothing to say about their marriage they were neither of them averse.

Yes, Maksim and Natasha loved and were going to marry. So far so good. But how were they going to be married?

By the church, of course, spake the elders of the Molokan sect. No license, no newfangled legal frivolities in theirs, please. These things belonged to the heathen, the pork eaters, the unclean.

But Maksim thought otherwise. He wanted the knot tied in the Los Angeles way. In America, it seemed to him, you should get married as the Americans do.

Maksim worked in a lumber yard. One by one he had seen the young men who worked with him absent themselves temporarily on mysterious errands and he good naturedly rallied by the others on their return. Little by little he had learned the legal steps to marriage—when and where and how to obtain the license and the cost, then to whom to go and what to do and the final cost. And with this knowledge had come the idea, dim and hazy at first, that this was the best way to do. Besides and above all, Rev. Mr. Lowell stood for it—Mr. Lowell, the head of the Good Samaritan Settlement House on Del Mar street, to whom all the foreign quarter looked up and whom Maksim almost worshiped.

Natasha was little minded and for quite similar reasons. She worked in a cannery. She had gone to school a little, and in numberless indirect ways she had reached the conclusion that, while the Molokan marriage was well enough in Russia, it would never do in the United States.

The Saturday night following the marriage negotiations Maksim came home from his work and, as usual, placed his week's wages, twelve good American dollars, in his father's hands.

"Maksim," said the old man, speaking in Russian—"Maksim, my son, it has been arranged between Elder Shuben and myself that you and the fair Natasha are to be married. You are both quite old enough. You are to be married one week from tomorrow. I trust you are happy at the prospect, my son."

"Yes," assented Maksim. "I want to marry Natasha, but"—And he hesitated, his eyes on the floor.

"But what?" demanded old Evan.

"How are we to be married?" tentatively asked Maksim.

"How married? By the elders, of course. Natasha's mother, Katga, is already preparing the feast."

"But," objected Maksim, hesitating, for he well knew the stern he was about to call down upon his head—"but Natasha and I don't want it that way. We want to get married, with a—paper, by a justice or—Mr. Lowell, in the American way. It is our wish."

The effect was as he expected. The whole communal family—Evan and Olga, his wife, and the four older sons and their wives—who had gathered about, were inexpressibly shocked. Old Evan's long gray beard swept his breast in his agitation.

"What?" he thundered. "You will forsake the church for the heathen ways—the heathen whom the Lord promised were to be scattered or become our servants when we entered this our Canaan? You will take up with these unclean pork eaters?" And he railed on amid a general family chorus of lamentations.

In the meantime a similar storm had broken out in the family of the Shubens, a storm that beat about the devoted head of poor Natasha.

And the next day the news spread quickly over the whole of "Eden," as some newspaper wag had facetiously named the Molokan quarter, that the expected marriage was not to take place for the good and sufficient reason that both the prospective bride and groom were possessed of devils. There was busy gossip; there was a ferment of excitement; there were wild rumors.

Artificial Flowers.

It was in Italy that a demand for artificial flowers first arose. This was due primarily to a caprice of fashion which demanded that during festivals blossoms in and out of their seasons should be worn and also to the fact that their color and freshness were stable. Later on, in the middle ages, the artificial so far superseded the natural that both men and women decked their heads with imitation flowers of cambric, paper, glass and metal.

At bottom the trouble was a contest between two modes of life.

Hour by hour the boy and girl realized more and more the seriousness of the situation. They were both under tremendous pressure of public opinion. How to get married in the American way and not split the Molokan community wide open and work their own ruin was a problem too big for the peasant lovers. They could not elope, as Americans might. They were aliens in an alien land.

Slowly an idea shaped itself in Maksim's mind. He would lay the whole matter before Mr. Lowell, who was infallible and would surely have a solution.

The settlement worker listened patiently to the boy's labored explanation, thinking hard and planning the while.

"Maksim," he said when the young man had finished, "I think I can help you. Get away from your work between 2 and 4 tomorrow afternoon and come to me. Don't let your folks know where you are."

Maksim was promptly on hand at the hour first named, and Mr. Lowell said, "Come with me."

Together they visited "Dan Cupid" Elmer, the marriage license clerk at the courthouse, where Mr. Lowell, by deftly evading certain little technicalities, aided the boy in securing the precious license. Then, cautioning secrecy, he said, "See Natasha as quietly as you can and bring her to the settlement house tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock."

Four o'clock the following afternoon promptly brought the lovers, and as promptly the two were made one and happy at the same time, Mr. Lowell handing Maksim the certificate at the close of the simple ceremony, which his wife had witnessed, saying: "Now you are married as well as the president of the United States or John D. Rockefeller. Say nothing to your people about this marriage and let the other marriage proceed. To be married twice won't do any harm, and it will satisfy your relatives, yourselves and the laws of California all at the same time. God bless you!" And Maksim and Natasha went their ways with the reverent feeling that "God" and "Mr. Lowell" were synonymous terms.

That evening there was a crowded meeting of the faithful of both sexes and all ages. Devils were to be exorcised. The air was surcharged with suppressed excitement.

Maksim and Natasha were both in attendance, the boy dutifully occupying a seat on the men's side, and Natasha sitting demurely on her side among the women.

The meeting began with the usual chant, the words of a Bible psalm being intoned in unison by the entire assemblage with long practiced rhythm and accent far more precise than musical. This chant was followed by another, the elders, who sat about a small table in a corner, leading and the rest following, while rough shod feet kept time against the uncarpeted floor.

The air of the place soon grew foul. Not a window or door was open, and the stamping feet raised a suffocating dust, to say nothing of the vocal exhalations of the hot, excited mass. It was evident that if the devils could not be expelled in any other way the air would soon become so rotten that no devil who had any regard for his health would stay.

During the progress of the service thus far many covert glances had been cast at Maksim and Natasha. Anxious watch was kept on them for the first sign that they were being freed from the Satanic spirits within them.

Maksim noted this, and when the meeting was about half over, the benches having been removed and the whole company were standing, he walked to the elders' corner and whispered something in his father's ear.

It must have been an assent to the church marriage, for instantly the old patriarch, his face flushed, his eyes gleaming and his whole attitude proclaiming that Maksim had got the better of his devils, threw up his great arms and began a new chant. At the same moment Natasha, taking her cue no doubt from Maksim, whispered a word in her mother's ear, and Katga's triumphant shout could have been heard three blocks away.

Every one in the room caught the electric signal of good news, and the excitement began to boil. The conditions were ripe and the moment had come for a wild debauch of religious rapture. Devils had been driven out, there was the exhilaration of triumph, and a saturnalia of religious intoxication was about to begin.

The noise became more deafening as the chanting continued. Men embraced each other, springing into the air and gesticulating wildly. The shrill voices of women arose above the pandemonium. Here and there under the stress of excitement overwrought nerves became unstrung, muscles began to "jerk" involuntarily, and the whole room became an insane uproar. Old Mother Shuben collapsed, a young woman "overcome of the spirit" fell prone in a corner, and the limit of strained endurance was reached when a stalwart member, locking arms with a brother behind his back, lifted said brother and threw him bodily over his head, stretching him full length on the floor and nearly breaking his neck.

There was a pause. The incident, which was so nearly an accident, recalled the revelers to their senses, the ghost dance ceased, the doors were opened, and the excitement calmed down. The people, exhausted, but happy, hurried into the open air and wended their way home. The devils had been chased away. Maksim and Natasha were to be married by the elders, and Eden was once more calm.

Spiteful.

At a local picture show a painter hung a notice under his highly prized landscape. "Do not touch with canes or umbrellas." Some one who was not an admirer of his works added to the notice, "Take an ax!"

Disagreeable Economy.

Husband—You are not economical. Wife—Well, if you don't call a woman economical who saves her wedding dress for a possible second marriage I'd like to know what you think economy is like.

PLATINIZED GLASS.

It Produces an Odd and a Tricky Kind of Mirror.

Platinized glass consists of a piece of glass coated with an exceedingly thin layer of a liquid charged with platinum and then raised to a red heat. The platinum becomes united to the glass in such a way as to form an odd kind of mirror.

The glass has not really lost its transparency, and yet if one places it against a wall and looks at it he sees his image as in an ordinary looking glass. But when light is allowed to come through the glass from the other side, as when it is placed in a window, it appears perfectly transparent, like ordinary glass.

By constructing a window of platinized glass one could stand close behind the panes in an unilluminated room and behold clearly everything going on outside, while passersby looking at the window would behold only a fine mirror or set of mirrors in which their own figures would be reflected while the person inside remained invisible.

In France various tricks have been contrived with the aid of this glass. In one a person seeing what appears to be an ordinary mirror approaches it to gaze upon himself. A sudden change in the mechanism sends light through the glass from the back, whereupon it instantly becomes transparent, and the startled spectator finds himself confronted by some grotesque figure that had been hidden behind the glass.—Harper's Weekly.

ORIGIN OF LLOYD'S.

Humble Beginning of Europe's Great Maritime Agency.

Two centuries ago a man who had a cargo to send to the Mediterranean contrived to get rid of some of the risk by inducing a friend to take an interest with him. It was necessary to write out a statement of contract to which the guarantors subscribed. These two men happened to be frequenters of Lloyd's coffee house in London, which was a favorite place for the merchants of the town to gather to discuss business or to gossip.

Others immediately saw the advantage of the scheme which their colleagues had devised, and on the next voyage the risk was parceled out among a larger number of the patrons of the coffee house.

Out of this small beginning has grown the great European maritime agency, still bearing the name of the humble coffee house proprietor, and which not only writes risks on vessels, but rates them and publishes their arrivals at every port of the world over, no matter how small or how remotely situated.—Annals of the American Academy.

Where Abraham Fished.

Mrs. Victoria de Bunsen in "The Soul of a Turk" relates a legend concerning Abraham which will be new to many readers. She learned of it while at Edessa, the traditional Ur of the Chaldees. She was shown there a large oblong tank of water so filled with fishes resting just below the surface of the water that their fins and backs seemed almost wedged together so as to form "an almost solid layer of silvery life."

"The guardian of the mosque throws some meal into the water, and the fish jump high to catch it, a great living pyramid, of which those which jump the highest form the pinnacle. The tradition is that Abraham as a child fished in the tank; hence the fish were considered sacred. No single one has been caught or killed to this day. Indeed, death would overtake the man who transgressed this law."

A Mole's Nest.

Among common animals few have been less studied in their life history than the mole. Mr. Lionel E. Adams says that under the "fortress" which the mole constructs above the surface of the ground will always be found a series of tunnels running out beneath the adjacent field. A curious feature almost invariably found is a perpendicular run penetrating about a foot below the bottom of the nest and then turning upward to meet another run. A mole is never found in his nest, although it may yet be warm from his body when opened. Guided by smell and hearing, a mole frequently locates the nest of a partridge or pheasant above his run and penetrating it from below, eats the eggs. The adult mole is practically blind, but there are embryonic indications that the power of sight in the race has deteriorated.

Integrity Value

Integrity in all our dealings with the public has been our guiding principle since the establishment of our business over twenty-five years ago.

In the gathering of our immense stock for this Fall, as in the past, Value has been the object, as well as having in stock what the clientele of this community want. Our community extends to a radius of fifteen miles and over, which necessitates a full and well assorted stock.

We owe our success and growth to the confidence of our customers, brought about by the giving of Best Values and the way of giving them.

While we are doing a very unusual business for a town the size of Gettysburg, we are in a position of stock and values to do much more, and we ask those who are tempted to order from the many catalogues circulated through this county, whose values look glittering on paper, to investigate our stock. Buy from merchants that you know carry only good goods, and who are able and do sell as cheaply as good goods can be sold at, and with no transportation cost; and when there is disappointment in your purchase you can get at us personally, without expense for money back or exchange.
